Your Email Alias Manager for Exchange Trial

What You Get

The copy of Email Alias Manager that you have downloaded is the full version of the product. During your trial, the product will operate normally and all features will be available to you. If you choose to buy Alias Manager, you will not have to re-download or re-install – you will simply have to enter the license code that you will be provided during purchase into the product.

Your Trial License

During initial installation and setup, Email Alias Manager will prompt you to activate a trial license. This process is normally conducted automatically via your internet connection but can be completed offline via a phone call to our sales team – the activation wizard will provide all the necessary information.

During your trial, Email Alias Manager will work for every user in your organization. When you purchase the product, you will need to buy a license for a specific number of active users. You can then select the users that the product will operate for. Site licenses that allow the product to operate for every user in your organization are also available from our Sales team.

Trial Extension

We fully understand that our customers may require more than 30 days to complete their product evaluation. If you do need more time, simply get in touch with your local Exclaimer sales contact who can arrange for your license to be extended.

Support

We believe that great product support is an integral part of the value that we offer and that during your trial you are evaluating our company as well as our products. Therefore, during your trial, you will receive the same level of technical support as our highly valued customers – you can even get a guided installation. Support is available by phone or email.
